

Community of Communities

A Quality Network of Therapeutic Communities

Community of Communities is a quality network of therapeutic communities (TCs). The project was established in 2002 and is managed by the Royal College of Psychiatrists' Research Unit and the Association of Therapeutic Communities. The aim is to enable TCs to demonstrate and improve the quality of their work, through an annual standards-based review process. The methods and values underpinning the project mirror the central philosophy of TCs. Staff and client members and ex-client members of participating communities are fully involved at each stage of the process.
